RUSH.

The republicans of the township of Rush are requested to meet in caucus at the Town hall, on Monday, March 29, 1897, at 2 o'clock p. m., to nominate the several town officers for the ensuing year and to transact such other business as may properly come before the caucus.

BY ORDER OF COM.

Our Leaders.

The republicans of this city have placed before the people the strongest city and ward tickets nominated in years. Young, active, popular, careful men, who are interested in the city's welfare and who are willing and able to push it to the front, who have their lives before them and expect to live in Owosso. The men are hustlers and we believe no party can select men who will more thoroughly carry out the work of the people. Individually they are strong men; collectively they are a powerful team. No republican need split his ticket. A prohibitionist can help the republicans and know that he is acting wisely; a democrat of the old faith can most certainly unite with us; a silverite will lose no ground in the cause for which he works by putting on a few of the republican nominees on his ticket. We greet the voters this spring without a blush and ask for their co-operation in electing what we believe will be a good set of officials.

The Outlook Bright.

In response to a call issued by the republican county committee nearly a hundred republicans of the county met with the committee at Corunna, Monday morning, to discuss the outlook for the spring campaign. Nearly every township was represented and reports made indicate that in most of them the chances are unusually favorable for the election of the township ticket. Even in Burns the republicans express themselves as ready to meet the enemy in an open fight, and do not fear the result. The universal expression was that Commissioner Bristol would run ahead of the state ticket. Take altogether the meeting was a success, if for no other reason than that it indicated that the republicans all over the county are wide awake, hard at work and determined to give a good majority for the state and county ticket.

The Republican City Convention.

The republican city convention held at the city hall last evening, was an enthusiastic and harmonious gathering. While the contests were close and exciting, still good feeling existed and all present seemed to accept the result gracefully and left the hall prepared to do hard work for the successful nominees. We have not space today to mention the candidates separately and can give only a condensed report of the proceedings.

The convention was called to order at 7:30 by E. O. Dewey, who read the call and asked Dr. C. McCormick to act as temporary chairman. On motion of G. W. Loring, E. O. Dewey was elected temporary secretary.

On motion of C. W. Parker, the chair appointed as a committee on credentials C. W. Parker, H. C. Main and A. E. Hartshorn. The committee subsequently reported the 50 delegates whose names are given in another column as entitled to seats, all of whom were present with the exception of J. L. Curtis, of the fourth ward, whose place was taken by C. E. Bradley. The report was accepted and adopted.

The temporary officers were made permanent and the following tellers appointed: A. D. Whipple, Dr. A. M. Hume, C. A. Beebe, W. E. Hall, C. W. Parker.

Nominations for mayor being in order, G. W. McClellan presented the name of Ira G. Curry; L. M. Woodin named Otto L. Sprague.

An informal ballot gave Sprague 28 votes, Curry 19, M. L. Parker 3; the formal ballot, Sprague 33, Curry 13, Parker 3. Mr. Sprague was declared the nominee.

A. D. Whipple in a terse manner presented the name of Fred Edwards for city clerk and moved that the secretary be instructed to cast the vote of the convention for Mr. Edwards. The motion prevailed, the ballot was cast and Mr. Edwards declared nominated.

The real contest of the evening began after the presentation by L. A. Hamblin, J. H. Robbins and S. R. Van Tiffin of Messrs. S. B. Pitts, A. H. Northway and C. C. Gregory for city treasurer. The first ballot gave Mr. Pitts 20 votes, Mr. Northway 26, Mr. Gregory 4. The next three formal ballots were thrown out, too many votes being cast each time as follows: Pitts 24, Northway 28; Pitts 25, Northway 26; Pitts 25, Northway 23, E. P. Byerly 1. The fourth formal ballot gave Mr. Pitts 26 votes, Mr. Northway 24, and the former was declared the nominee.

For justice of the peace, J. H. Robbins asked the convention to nominate John L. Ash, while S. R. Van Tiffin urged the selection of E. P. Byerly. The informal ballot gave Byerly 23 votes, Ash 24, C. C. Gregory 1; on the formal ballot 51 votes were cast, 27 for Byerly and 24 for Ash, being declared illegal. On the second formal ballot, Byerly received 26 votes and Ash 24, the former being declared nominated.

The vote of the convention was cast for J. H. Robbins for school inspector and his nomination was declared unanimous.

Otto L. Sprague, the nominee for mayor, thanked the convention for the honor and then in a short, well worded speech stirred up great enthusiasm by making an earnest appeal to the republicans to stand by the principles of the party, working harmoniously to win even a greater victory than that achieved last fall. His remarks were heartily cheered. Fred Edwards also thanked the delegates for his nomination.

Republican Ward Caucuses.

PRAISE OF LONG.

AS SOLDIER, CITIZEN, JURIST.

The republican members of the legislature in caucus on Wednesday, adopted the following resolutions:

"Whereas, The April election is near at hand, and we deem it especially important that all the republican voters of the state shall be correctly informed of the regard in which Hon. Charles D. Long, justice of the supreme court of the state of Michigan, is held by the republican members of the legislature who meet him almost daily, and who have excellent opportunities to know of his legal learning and great personal worth; therefore, be it

Resolved, By the republican members of the Michigan legislature, on this, the twenty-fourth day of March, 1897, in caucus assembled:

First, That the splendid and loyal service rendered to his country by Justice Long in spending a number of years of his young manhood in the army, where he left his arm upon the field of battle and received serious wounds that he will carry as long as he lives, should commend him to every lover of his country.

Second, The courage shown by this young soldier in taking up the duties of civil life under adverse circumstances and compelling success, commands the admiration of every man, young or old, who has respect for manly character and undaunted courage.

Third, Nearly ten years of work on the bench of the supreme court has demonstrated beyond question that Justice Long has exceptional qualifications for the high office which he now honors. He has shown himself to be an able jurist of vast experience, kindly, patient and courteous, possessing the courage of his convictions. He has won from the legal fraternity their unbounded confidence in his learning and probity. His elevation to the bench has not prevented him from keeping in touch with the citizens of the commonwealth in relation to the affairs of life. He possesses the confidence and respect of all who come in contact with him, irrespective of party.

Fourth, Justice Long possesses in the fullest measure our confidence and esteem as a high-minded citizen, a pure man, an able lawyer and a competent, fearless judge, and we pledge him our active and cordial co-operation, and urge upon all the voters of the state who are interested in good government, their active, earnest work in aiding in the re-election of Justice Long."

Similar resolutions, endorsing the candidacy of W. J. Cocker and C. D. Lawton, for regents of the university of Michigan, were unanimously adopted.

ment of pledges, dues, etc., as much misery resulted in their missionary work, from delayed payments and careless business methods.

The committee on revising by-laws reported favorably on changes recommended, and the sections were read and adopted.

The committee on nominations made a report, recommending the same officers as last year, which report was adopted unanimously. Mrs. Grabbill was re-elected to succeed herself as a trustee; Mrs. Church, of Lansing, to succeed Mrs. Strong, and Mrs. I. P. Powell to succeed Mrs. Packard. Mrs. I. P. Powell was elected a delegate to the national meeting at Saratoga, N. Y.

Delegates to the state meeting of churches were chosen as follows: Mrs. Powell, Mrs. DeForest, Mrs. Stroug, Mrs. Grabbill, Mrs. F. H. Coddington, Laingsburg; Mrs. Aldrich, Mrs. M. C. Mather, Mrs. J. H. Hatfield, Mrs. Church.

Mrs. E. P. Church gave one of the best papers of the week, on the subject of the origin and work of Congregational missions. In May, 1642, a committee of three were sent from Boston for a missionary journey that took eleven weeks, as long now as it takes to go around the globe. A little later the Massachusetts society was organized, then the Connecticut society, and missionaries were sent to the "far west" (Ithaca, New York). Three young students from Andover seminary, on a journey in gospel work, conceived the idea of a national organization, and soon the matter was thoroughly discussed, and under Nathaniel Boughton a national society was started, the society including six church denominations in its membership. Later it was made the American Home Missionary Society and confined to Congregational churches. This was in 1827, making this year the 70th anniversary. At that time the society was supporting 125 ministers. The office was established at city hall, Park Place, New York, later moving to 140 Nassau street, where it still holds its office. Stephen Van Rensselaer was the first president. Rev. Dr. Storrs is the present president. In 1890 the society raised and disbursed $777,700, and in its history has collected and disbursed over $19,000,000, having work in every state and territory, Alaska included. Gen. O. O. Howard was for several years one of its presidents.

Mrs. E. F. Grabbill, treasurer, made a report showing that nearly $6,000 had been raised and disbursed during the year, and this through six different funds. Children have been cared for and schooled in North Carolina, at Highland, at the Santee training school, in North Dakota; in Tennessee; teachers have been supplied to schools of a religious and educational character for Indians, Negroes, Chinese and to unfortunate. Money has come from old and young, the juveniles contributing $124, seniors, $3,627.80, and other sources. Churches have been aided in building houses of worship and parsonages. Children have been sent to some of the Congregational schools, such as Oberlin.

Letters from Miss Hess.

We are pleased to give this week two short letters from Miss Meda Hess, whose work is supported by the societies represented in the meetings here this week.

MARASH, TURKEY, DEC 31, '96.

Among the welcome messages brought by the post this morning was the news, through Mrs. Coffing, that you had sent some money for my work here. To say I thank you doesn't express all my feeling. In the midst of so much suffering I welcome anything that will keep these poor people from starving. You could have contributed in another way. That you did not and chose to give me the pleasure of using it makes me feel very happy, and I wish to thank you for the kindly thought and no less than for the merciful deed. It has come just in time to use for Christmas.

I had to leave part of my mail unread (it is still waiting a leisure moment) to go to the Third Church schools, of which I am superintendent. One hundred and ten little ones, under eight years old, were crowded in a low room 15x30 feet, the walls are of mud and they sit on the floor, as the custom here is. What would I not give to show those same children in America. Their bright and beautiful, though, alas! pinched faces had an expression of perfect happiness on them, for had not the hannum (lady) come to see them?

Some were in such rags that I despair of describing. I thought in looking at one little girl that I must have those rags as a curiosity, so I called her to me to say that I would give her a dress, but Mrs. Lee had been ahead of me and had given her one yesterday, not yet sewed.

There are about 300 children in the school and 36 of them had not a thing to put on their feet as they came through the snow and deep mud. Of course they have not enough to eat at home, and are so thinly clad in most cases that they must suffer a great deal. While I was there the deacon came with most of the 36 pairs of shoes I had ordered. The gifts of generous friends enabled me to do this. The children did not know the shoes were coming, even when I came away, so that a little incident touched me much. After their recess their teacher, one of our school girls, had them repeat what they had learned of the 23d Psalm. They were somewhat abashed by my presence, but they looked steadily into the sweet face of their teacher and with childlike trust repeated: "The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want." When I reached home I found your money awaiting me. The thought came to me, how happy you would be to know you had answered some child's prayer this Christmas. Please add your prayers to your gift.

MEDA HESS.

JAN. 24, 1897.

Thanks to the "Congregationalist fund" we have received money enough to keep 80 children a year. We are to take 50 at once and choose the others more deliberately. I am very happy over the prospect of overseeing the making of their garments. Just think of the fun of making 100 little garments!

The Armenian Christmas comes on Jan. 18, and in the morning we went to the Christmas service, which began before daylight. My chief errand was to collect the children afterward and take them to the school room to drill for the exercises today. The house was packed full, which doesn't mean much to any one who has not seen people sitting on the floor packed together. I stood on the stairs leading to the gallery, but where I could see over. Away up under the ceiling are tiny windows 8x12 inches and the walls are 12 inches thick. The gallery leads up by steps, and there in one of those tiny window seats were stowed away two little children. When we reached home it was time for the tree, but only a part of the children came, as measles had broken out among the orphans and many were sick; but those who came received their simple gifts with an utter abandonment of joy that was enough to make one weep, especially if she thought of the hundreds of other orphans in the snow-covered mountains, buried in straw to keep warm or dying from exposure. I can hardly wait for the new orphans to be chosen and brought down.

I have told you that the Turks built a fort at Zeltoun and moved the soldiers into it before it was dry and so many of them are sick, that to use their own words they could not defend themselves if attacked. So they are coming here to Marash while others take their places. My sympathy goes out to the poor, ragged, half-fed, sick soldiers, sitting against sunny walls this morning, looking as if they wished to die. They told the gate-keeper that they longed for their homes and children, and said if they ran away they would be shot, and if they stayed they would die. In Antab they had to lie in the streets with the dogs. I saw that myself when there last fall.

Forced contributions are being taken by the government for the Sultan—to arm the Moslems I suppose. Over a hundred Armenians were put into prison two days ago. We have heard of the fearful persecutions in other cities over this blackmail, and now it is the turn of poor Marash. I will copy a couple of items from a letter from Harpoot:

"Two or three weeks ago a Christian officer was sent to Peri. Last week he was cut to pieces in his own house in the night. Next day the Protestant pastor and other leading Christians were imprisoned on the charge of complicity in the murder. They spent the previous evening with the murdered man. These men are members of our relief committee, and 200 liras of relief money has been seized by the government. The Vali has telegraphed that the money must be had in safe keeping. The murdered man was one of the best men on our central relief committee last winter. He was a native of Eghin and was the last of six sons who have been taken from their widowed mother in the last few months. One hanged himself through fear of coming events, two were killed in the capital and two in Eghin, one survives."

"Two Bibles sent to prisoners in Mezrah have been seized by the Mutaserif Mudir and condemned on account of Dan. 12:1. He threatens to collect and burn all books containing the passage."

The government relief committee have been giving relief to Mezreh, and simultaneously the soldiers have been collecting taxes. One case is given where the relief committee were in the house and the soldiers at the door to get the money for taxes!

His Imperial Majesty's birthday was celebrated here last week with illuminations, including the Catholics and French Consuls. As the latter had used such strong language New Year's day we were surprised. There were rockets, and when Miss F. and I went shopping next day we saw the decorations. They were principally bits of rags, white and the sacred color of green strung across the streets. They looked very funny, indeed.

M. H.

Morris Herald: In a thorough canvass of the south part of this county for subscribers this week, we find that O. L. Bristol's name is mentioned quite favorably for county school commissioner. We can see by this that Mr. Bristol is gaining friends rapidly, and it would be safe to count on a large majority for him from this township, where he is well known and highly respected. He is just the kind of a man people interested in the welfare of our schools should place in the office of county school commissioner.
